TERSELY TOLD.

Monroe D. Bloch, of Mobile, was among the prominent men who visited Pensacola yesterday.

C. H. Smith, of Flomaton, was among those who were in the city yesterday and registered at the Esplanade.

A. L. Sutherland, who has been visiting friends and relatives in Mobile for the past three months, has returned to the city.

G. D. Nobles, and his sons, who have been spending some days most pleasantly at Perdido, have returned to the city, and will leave to-day for their homes in Montgomery.

Arrangements for a hop and dance are now being made to be given some time during the early part of next week at what is now known as Electric Park. The event will be under the auspices of the Navajo Club, which has given a number of events recently, which were greatly enjoyed by the young people of the city.

The two sanitary inspectors, F. C. Commeyne and Jos. E. Maura, were sworn into office yesterday morning by City Clerk Bernard and immediately assumed charge of their duties, and started upon their first inspection of the city. Messrs. Tuttle and Eberett, who have served faithfully for the past two years, retired from office at the time the new inspectors were sworn in.

SWEDEN WANTS TO IMPROVE A SETTLEMENT BAY VIEW PARK

Bill Introduced in Riksdag to Authorize Negotiations to This End.

SUGGESTED THAT DELEGATES BE APPOINTED TO ENDEAVOR TO ARRANGE FOR CONVENTION LOOKING TO PEACEFUL ARRANGEMENT OF DIFFERENCES.

By Associated Press.

Stockholm, Sweden, June 21.—The extraordinary session of the riksdag summoned by King Oscar to deal with the momentous question raised by Norway's declaration dissolving the union, met for business to-day. As called by the Associated Press yesterday, the government introduced a bill asking for authorization to enter into negotiations with the Norwegian government and draw up a conditional settlement of the questions involved in the separation of the heretofore dual kingdom.

The session was opened by King Oscar in person with the usual ceremonial. The king made a speech from the throne in which he protested against the charge that by violation of the constitution he had provoked the steps taken by Norway.

In the council of state which sanctioned the introduction of the bill in the riksdag dealing with the crisis both the king and the premier were on the side of a pacific solution.

Premier Ramstedt spoke first, pointing out that it was not to Sweden's interest to resort to coercive measures. He recommended therefore entering into negotiations for a convention by which guarantees should be obtained conducive to the mutual welfare of the two countries. In any case he declared negotiations were indispensable to definitely clear up the situation.

The premier suggested that delegates be appointed to this end and it was only after such a conditional settlement and after the riksdag had fully considered the matter that Sweden would be in a position to decide as to her definite approval of the dissolution and agree to annulling the act of union.

After several members had acquiesced in the premier's views, King Oscar with visible emotion spoke as follows:

"It is a painful step which the council of state calls on me to take. My conscience tells me that I have during my long reign always striven toward the object I had in mind at the time of my accession, namely the welfare of the brother people. It is truly painful to me to contribute to the dissolution of a union in which I thought I saw the independence, security and happiness of the united kingdoms. If, however, I am ready to act thus it is in order to avoid a worse evil and in the conviction that the union without mutual accord would bring no real advantage to Sweden."

"I have always acted," the king said, "in accordance with my conscience and always in conformity with the constitution and with the desire to work conscientiously for the true welfare of the two people. The bill presented to the riksdag does not aim at replying to injustice by acts of coercion. The union is not worth the sacrifices which acts of coercion would entail and a union into which Norway would be forced in such a manner would be of little value to Sweden."

The king concluded with expressing the hope that the Swedish people would be guided by calmness and prudence and that God would give them strength and unity to regain within their own frontiers what they had lost by the dissolution of the union.

BIG CROWDS ARE EXPECTED

MEMBERS OF THE PENSACOLA BOAT CLUB WANT TO DONATE A SUM FOR PUBLIC IMPROVEMENT.

TO ATTEND THE CELEBRATION HERE ON JUNE 29 BY THE ORDER OF RAILWAY CONDUCTORS AT MAGNOLIA BLUFF.

That large crowds will come to Pensacola on the 29th of June to attend the annual picnic and celebration of the Order of Railway Conductors, is without a doubt. Many of the persons who will come to the city will do so in order that they may secure exceedingly low rates, while others will be on pleasure bent.

The local railroad men have been advertising this event extensively, and have succeeded in placing their advertising matter in the hands of persons in every town and station along the line of the Southern Alabama, P. &amp; A. and Pensacola divisions, with the result that much interest is being taken, and it is expected that the largest crowds to come to the city in years will be here on that date.

The committees having the event in charge are now at work arranging for the various attractions which will be afforded those who come here to spend a day of enjoyment, and while every detail has not yet been completed it is expected that all will be ready before the end of the week.

LONDON IN A FOG.

A Wet Day of Dense Gloom in the English Metropolis.

He knew his London well. We went forth into a fog that was of the pea soup variety. It seemed useless to wait any longer for it to clear off. The days were all alike and were darker than twilight ever dared to be. I clung to Prentice Mulford's coat sleeve, for I knew if he were once to get beyond my reach I could never hope to find him again. We groped blindly among the streets, where the atmosphere was only less palpable than the houses that walled us in. At intervals we inquired where we were, for otherwise we could never have known at all. We had to feel our way carefully and take soundings at intervals. "Here," said Prentice as we paused in space; "here is Temple Bar." I thought I saw something that might have been the ghost of an arch hewn out of the solid fog. The top of it though it was not lofty, was lost to view. Temple Bar, now gone forever from the place where its gates once swung in the wall of the old city—it was here her gracious majesty Queen Victoria of England was wont to receive the keys of the city from the hands of the lord mayors when she drove in state to St. Paul's cathedral. We threaded Fleet street, but could not see to the farther shore.

"Here is her majesty's tower," said Prentice, but nothing of it was visible, not one stone upon another. We crossed London bridge almost without knowing it. The waters of the Thames, which are but condensed fog, were invisible from the parapet, and the steam ferries were picking their way cautiously and looking very like marine monsters in a muddy aquarium. We crawled through the tunnel for foot traffic under the Thames, which was like a hole in the fog, and for hours carried the sky about on our shoulders. It was a woolly, greasy and ill smelling sky. Our nostrils were clogged with cinders, like chimney fumes, and there were smudges all over our faces. Sometimes for a moment or two we saw a spot overhead that was like a pale red wafer, and we knew it for the sun, now lost to us. The lamps that burned all day were like glow-worms for dimness, and so we explored the wonders of the town and saw as much of it as a blind man sees, but no more.—Charles Warren Stoddard in National Magazine.

Printers' Errors.

A reader forwards me a pleasant addition to my collection of printers' errors, says T. P.'s London Weekly.

It was told him by the late C. Farquharson Findlay, for some years editor of the Dover Chronicle, as having happened to him personally. He had occasion to write of the "blind guides who strain at a gnat and swallow a camel," which appeared in print as "who strain at a quart and swallow a canal."

Did any of my readers notice, I wonder, a delightful error of this kind in one of the reviews, in which Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman was described as "brandishing a mailed fist?" It rather reminds one of the famous Spoonerism about "feeling a half warmed fish in your bosom."

T. H. LANNON &amp; CO.

REPORT THAT OSCEOLA CLUB WAS ON FIRE.

A report, which spread rapidly over the city last night, was to the effect that the Osceola Club was on fire. The report, however, was incorrect, although the fire department was called out on a still alarm.

The cause of the report was the chimney to the kitchen igniting, or rather the soot catching fire, sending out sparks and ure, which were noticed by parties passing, one of whom telephoned to fire headquarters on Garden street, and two trucks responded immediately.

While the arrival of the trucks caused a crowd to congregate, no damage whatever resulted.

COMFORTING WORDS.

Many a Pensacola Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Pensacola readers.

A. Oertling, seaman, of 419 L street, tells how to do it. He says: "From my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills I can strongly recommend them to anyone in need of a good medicine for the kidneys. Kidney complaint and backache caused me suffering at intervals for years. The first or second attack I did not mind, but as time went by they grew worse and at times laid me up. I could hardly walk and it was a difficult matter to straiten after stooping while the kidney secretions were irregular and unnatural. Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Sidney Kahn's drug store, No. 9 South Palafox street, cured me. From personal experience I know that this remedy can be depended upon to fulfill the representations made for it."

YOUNG LADY WAS INJURED

MISS LENA HESTER HAD SKULL FRACTURED BY A BASEBALL BAT, WHICH SLIPPED FROM HANDS OF BOY.

An accident, which will cause the young lady considerable pain and annoyance, occurred yesterday afternoon near Bayou Chico, when Miss Lena Hester, residing in this city, was struck over the left eye with a piece of wood, fracturing her skull, and causing her to be sent to the hospital for treatment.

The young lady with some friends was passing near where a number of boys were playing baseball. The boys, not having a bat, were using a piece of wood in its stead, and as Miss Hester was passing, the boy using the bat allowed it to slip from his hand as he struck at the ball. The stick flew toward Miss Hester and struck over the left eye, inflicting a small but deep wound.

She was immediately taken to St. Anthony's hospital, where a physician took one stitch in the wound. Upon examination, it was found, however, that the skull had been slightly fractured.
